THE ACADEMIC INSTITUTE

The Academic Institute

Every new step that we take is centered around our mission to prepare students for success in college and their lives beyond by helping them cultivate a sense of capability, determination, resilience, self-advocacy, and a love of learning.

The Academic Institute was founded in 1980 by Sherrill O'Shaughnessy-Alexander. Sherrill always had a strong desire to be a part of the education field. She started out by teaching English and Math for fourteen years, first at an elementary school, then at Inglemoor High School. Her passion for teaching initiated an inspiration to run a school of her own. After overcoming the obstacles of learning the ways of the business world, The Academic Institute was established. It has grown from a two-teacher tutoring facility to what is now a school with around 30 students and its largest graduating class yet. Sherrill loves having the chance to interact directly with each student and is proud to say she has encouraged and helped many to maintain hope for college and successful futures. "Dream big," Sherrill advises, "And be willing to work as hard as necessary to make those dreams come true."

What's to come in 2008?

Predictions

- ⇒ Businesses claiming to be “carbon neutral” will be found out to be nothing of the sort, causing a fallout in the green movement
- ⇒ At least one major U.S. airline will buy another
- ⇒ Music industry in crisis. CD sales will plummet while digital music continues to grow
- ⇒ The gold rush in Facebook and social networks will begin to fade as people tire of the same old thing
- ⇒ Internet TV will be invented. Business Week says, “if Apple can’t do it, someone else will.”
- ⇒ Web 2.0 will find there are not enough ad dollars for all of them to survive on, nor enough corporate buyers such as Google, Microsoft, and traditional media companies to buy them all out
- ⇒ Internet privacy will be a major concern

What not to expect in 2008...

- DreamWorks isn't going to leave Paramount after all.
- Apple won't reinvent TV viewing.
- Juno won't win an Academy award.
- Google won't buy a media company.
- Indiana Jones will not be the biggest film of 2008.
 - Katie Couric won't quit.
- The Disney-Pixar deal won't implode.
- Fox Business News won't close shop.
- MGM won't be the first Hollywood studio to get sold.
